A Vision For The Future...Not Politics As Usual

This week I want to talk about the state of politics in this country. For too many years we have seen politicians move from looking out for the best interests of our communities to looking out for the best interests of their political future. I started to take an active role in our country's politics two years ago when I saw that the concerns which faced American voters were substituted for partisan ideologies which ignore main street values.

At the beginning of this year I released a new website and gave you my 10 commitments for a better tomorrow, which I believe will turn this district and country back around. We need to get our politicians back to being representatives who look out for our best interests and not the interests of those in the Washington beltway.

I want to reaffirm my promise to you, the voters of Ohio's 6th District, that I will never play politics with your future, your children's future or your grandchildren's future. What we need in this country is common sense to rule the day so that our representatives will look out for our interests once again, rather than those of the politically connected.

The time is now for us to take our government

Twenty Years With The Air Force Reserves

Last month I completed my 20th year in the United States Air Force Reserve, and will be officially retired as of April 30, 2010. While this is kind of a bittersweet milestone in my life, I have enjoyed working in public health at Wright-Patterson AFB, OH and serving in the Air Force. I have just become a member of the Vienna Air Reserve Base Community Council, and will be participating in the support of one of the Mahoning Valley's most valued assets.

I will be traveling with them on Feb 23rd and 24th to Patrick AFB and Cape Kennedy in Florida. Read more about my plan for our national security and other issues at my new website: www.drallenforcongress.com

Committing to a Better Tomorrow, By Finding Solutions Today

I have spent the last 10 months traveling the 325-mile length of this district, meeting with business and community leaders. My “Commitment for a Better Tomorrow” compels me to start developing some real solutions for our district and country, which upon my swearing in I will propose on the floor of the House of Representatives from day one. Even though I am not in Congress yet, I am working with my team to create solutions to the concerns voiced by those I have met. Please contact me and let me know what you would like me to take to Capitol Hill on your behalf. I am not going to Congress to make shallow friends in Washington; I’m going to make lasting friends here in the 6th District. Read more about my goals for the 6th District here on my new site: www.drallenforcongress.com
