Student Complaint/Appeal Process

While the Wellness Institute endeavors to maintain a congenial and responsive atmosphere for its students conducive with its educational purposes, it recognizes that from time to time, misunderstandings and disagreements may arise during the course of a student's enrollment. In response to this situation, The Wellness Institute has established procedures to resolve problems and ensure fair adjudication of student rights.

Informal Procedures

Initially, disagreements, complaints, misunderstandings, and grievances can be resolved by The Wellness Institute by using informal discussion, exchanges, persuasion, and other informal procedures. It is the intent of this policy to maximize these informal procedures so long as such measures prove effective. The formal procedure provisions of this policy should be set in motion only when the informal procedures prove to be or manifestly will be ineffective. It is expected that the great majority of cases will continue to be handled in accordance with informal procedures.

Complaint

If a student feels that he or she has been treated unfairly or unjustly by an employee, online mentor, learning coach, or professor with regard to an academic process such as grading, testing, or assignments, the student must submit a written statement of the grievance to The Wellness Institute, office of the President, who with the Academic Officer is the final authority on all academic matters. Nothing in this policy prevents the student from contacting the Workforce Board (the state licensing agency) at 360-709-4600 at any time with a concern or a complaint.

A "registration fee" is any fee charged by the school to process student applications and establish a student record system.

Accommodation Policy for Students with Disabilities

To ensure that its programs, activities, and services are accessible to all matriculating students, The Wellness Institute is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for students with documented disabilities in accordance with federal and state laws and regulations, including the Americans with Disabilities Acts of 1990 (ADA). Documented disabilities may include a learning disability; attention deficit disorder; a visual, hearing, or mobility impairment; a physical or mental illness; or food allergy. A reasonable accommodation is one that is consistent with the academic standards of the Institute and does not require substantial course or program alteration or result in the lowering of academic standards. Final authority for determining appropriate and effective accommodations rests with The Wellness Institute and is based on the nature of the course or program and the individual student's disability-related need. [It must be understood that arrangements for equipment, recorded text, interpreters, housing assignments, testing and other accommodations require advance notice.]

Incoming students with documented disabilities who wish to seek accommodation need to make their needs for accommodation known to the Registrar, who will determine what accommodations may be appropriate and necessary and will communicate in writing with the instructor of the course involved regarding specific recommended accommodations. Faculty members play an important part in determining whether suggested accommodations are appropriate in the context of their course design and evaluation. The student should meet with the instructor during the first week of classes to discuss the accommodations. It is not uncommon for the instructor to fine tune the accommodation request with the student. If a student is dissatisfied with an instructor's decision or the implementation of accommodations, it is the student's responsibility to notify the Registrar who can intervene to attempt to address a student's concerns.

The following definitions apply to terms as they are used in this policy.

Disability. Defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) to be a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities of such individual; a record of such an impairment; or being regarded as having such an impairment. To qualify as a disability under the ADA, the impairment must be permanent or of extended duration.

Reasonable Accommodation. Defined by the ADA as actions that may include: making existing facilities used by faculty and staff readily accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities; job restructuring, part-time or modified work schedules, allowing work from home or other remote location; reassignment to a vacant position, acquisition or modifications of equipment or devices, appropriate adjustment or modifications of examinations, training materials, or policies, the provision of qualified readers or interpreters, and other similar accommodations for individuals with disabilities.
