WHAT TEACHERS ARE SAYING:

Beautiful watercolor posters! I love having them up on my classroom wall. As the students get in line to leave my room, I often see them looking up and practicing the hand signs (without any prompting from me)! :)

I was looking for some cute solfege posters to put on my cabinets that fit with the look I was going for in my classroom! These were perfect! The colors were bright, but at the same time the watercolor made it look more calming and artistic. I love that there were so many options for font, as well as chromatics! Nice work! :) The students love them too, practicing their hand signs as they are lining up at the end of music.

These posters are so trendy and beautiful! I used them as a solfege ladder as we introduced each new solfege syllable, and then played a pointing game where they'd sing whichever one I pointed to and say "shh" if I wasn't pointing at the ones that we were working on at the time. Thanks for this great resource!

These are very attractive signs. I wanted something smaller for a skinny space beside my door frame, so I printed them at 50% reduction (2 pages per letter sheet) on card stock. They look super sharp.

Love these watercolor solfege posters. I have them up above my board and see students referencing them all the time.
