HAPPY TEACHING!

This activity is part of a growing series of free learning activities for math, reading and writing when your kids only have a few spare minutes... or even less! You can find them all HERE!

HOW TO PREPARE

- Print off the pre-prepared sight word spinner in colour or black and white OR
- Edit to include whatever words you're currently working on (or fun words, or differently levelled words etc...)
 - It's easy! Just open the file in Adobe Reader (it's free), click on the spaces and type. (Only the 2nd two spinners are editable).
 - Please note: the coloured rectangle you see WILL NOT print, it's just so you can see easily where each text box is.
 - Please note: for the editable version the words had to be straight rather than slanted (because I couldn't make my program do that).
 - Once you've added your own words just print it off.
- Add a brad if you have one. For these I've used a split pin (do Americans call them cotter pins??) and attached a paper clip as a spinner. This requires less effort than trying to hold a pencil in place to spin the paper clip.
- You're ready to go!

HOW TO PLAY

- Simply spin the spinner and read the sight word. That's it!
- To play in pairs, have one spin and the other read, or put 2 kids together so they can help each other decode the words.

It's designed as a consolidating task rather than as an avenue for learning previously unknown words. This way, when your kids have a few spare minutes, or while they're waiting for other kids to finish in the bathroom, they can quickly grab and spin and get a little more practice.

Ask the children what words they'd like included. Perhaps you're learning 'All About Me' or how communities work. This is a great way to bring social studies vocabulary into a reading exercise. Or add the names of different children if they're learning to read each others' names.

I hope your children enjoy this activity and wish you happy teaching and learning!

Please do not send this file to others, but direct them to Liz's Early Learning Spot where they can download it for themselves! It helps keep my blog afloat.

This product is a little different from the pictures because before I could post the product my laptop was stolen. I had to remake these pages but the photos were still on my camera. Since I was travelling I had no way to re-photograph this product.
