Blue whales, gorillas, and pandas all have one thing in common; an endangered species. There are millions of species on Earth. Many of them are endangered, meaning they are at risk of going extinct or disappearing forever.

Many factors determine if a species will survive or become endangered. Sometimes extinction is a natural process. Typically, five species become extinct annually. However, currently, 12 species a day are becoming extinct.

In the United States, there are over 1,300 species listed as endangered or threatened. Throughout the world, there are close to 40,000 species under threat, and over 16,000 species believed to be endangered.

The International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) keeps a Red List of plants and animals that may be endangered. Their list includes 7 levels, with Level One being 'Least Concern' and Level Seven being 'Extinct'.
