6 PASSAGES

A laptop screen is shown, displaying a text passage about Africa. The background of the laptop screen is a kitchen scene with various items on shelves and a doorway. The text is presented in a white box with a thin black border. The passage is divided into two paragraphs. The first paragraph provides general facts about Africa's size, population, and geographical location. The second paragraph discusses the continent's diverse flora and fauna, specifically mentioning the Big Five animals and the poaching of rhinos.

Africa is the 2nd largest continent on Earth with the second largest population. It contains 11.7 million square miles of land and is home to more than 1.4 billion people. Africa has 54 countries spanning five main regions. It is surrounded by the Mediterranean Sea to the north, the Atlantic Ocean to the west, the Indian Ocean to the east, and the Red Sea to the northeast. Many characteristics make the continent of Africa the most diverse, including its wildlife, climate, and culture.

Africa has been blessed with diverse flora and fauna, including the famous Big Five game animals - lion, elephant, buffalo, leopard, and rhinoceros. The African elephant is the largest land animal on Earth. The African lion is a fierce predator that roams the grasslands and savannas of Africa. Rhinos are known for their distinctive horns, which are often poached (illegally hunted) for their supposed medicinal properties.
