6 PASSAGES

The Great Depression happened in the 1930s and lasted about ten years. It was a terrible economic time in America and the rest of the world. Many Americans were out of jobs, had no money, shelter or food.

The stock market is an important component (part) of how the Great Depression started. A stock is a shared ownership in a company. Anyone can invest, or buy, a stock, or a part of a company. In the 1920s, the stock market value was increasing, so many people were investing (buying) heavily into it. However, stock value soon began to drop, and people tried selling their stocks to ensure they didn't lose their money. Everyone selling at once led to the crash of the market in 1929. This meant that stocks lost all of their value and people's money was worthless. The day the stock market crashed is known as 'Black Thursday'.
