6 PASSAGES

The U.S. Senate is a part of the Legislative Branch of the federal (national) government. The main job of the Legislative Branch is to make laws. The Senate and House of Representatives make up Congress. Congress is bicameral which means that it is divided into two houses;

Each house has a unique role to make sure that the Legislative Branch fulfills its duties. Each house also plays a vital role to ensure that the federal government is balanced. Congress is divided to prevent any one section of the Legislative Branch from becoming unreasonably powerful. The structure and role of the U.S. Senate is outlined in the United States Constitution in Article 1. The Senate is often referred to as the "upper" house.
