6 PASSAGES

Students will read 6 short passages about the topic, then answer questions.

Rome had a powerful military force and grew rapidly beginning around 300 BCE. At the height of their power, Rome covered all of Italy in addition to most of continental Europe, Britain, Western Asia, the Mediterranean Islands, and much of Northern Africa. The Roman language of Latin was used throughout all of Rome. After 450 years as a republic, the Roman Empire became ruled by an emperor, or Caesar. Julius Caesar gained popularity after military victories in Spain. Julius Caesar was elected to Consul in the Roman Republic when he was 40. He began his political career as a governor and after instigating a civil war in Italy, emerged victorious as dictator for life in 45 BCE. Less than one year later, however, Julius Caesar was killed by men he had once called friends on March 15th, now known as the Ides of March.
