GROWTH MINDSET

Albert Einstein was born in 1879 in Ulm, Germany. He was a scientist and inventor. Einstein came up with some of the most important discoveries of science. Some consider him to be one of the smartest in the world. He immigrated to the United States in 1933, fleeing from Adolf Hitler in Germany. At 15, his father's business failed which forced the family to move to Milan.

Einstein failed his college entrance exam the first time but had the courage to continue working towards his goals. He was persistent and motivated. His wife Elsa said he locked himself in a room upstairs for two weeks while he worked on his famous equation.

He is best known for his Theory of Relativity and E=MC². His formula explained the relationship between energy (E) and mass (M). The theory paved the way for nuclear energy inventions.

Einstein has won numerous awards, including the Nobel Prize. In 1921, he won the Nobel Prize in Physics for his discovery of the law of the photoelectric effect.

Einstein is known for saying "Anyone who has never made a mistake has never tried anything new."

Walt Disney, known for his movies and theme parks, was born in Illinois in 1901. At a young age, he began drawing and selling his works to neighbors to earn money. Walt attended McKinley High School in Chicago where he studied photography and art. He later became a newspaper cartoonist.

Disney started making commercials for the Film Ad Company and later opened his own business with his friend, Fred Harman. Together, they created a cartoon called Laugh-O-Grams. Unfortunately, Walt announced the studio's bankruptcy in 1923.

Disney created the character and voice of Mickey Mouse. The first animated, silent film featuring Mickey was a flop and failed to find distribution. Disney didn't let that stop him from finding success.

When sound was made available, Disney made a short film called Steamboat Willie. The cartoon was an instant success and boosted his career.

In the early 1950's, Walt had an idea to create a theme park called Disneyland with rides based on his movies. Today, the park is one of the
