Great Britain was in _____ due to the Seven Years War. Thus, British rule decided to impose _____ on the colonies along with other orders that seemed _____ to the colonists. This led to 2 groups forming: the Loyalists (_____ loyal to Great Britain) and the Patriots (wanting independence from Great Britain). Colonists chose a _____ based on what they thought would work in their best interest. While the Loyalists and Patriots had different _____, they were all members of the 13 colonies who lived under _____ rule at this time. Many were heirs of English settlers and they were all willing to _____ for their ideals, which led to the rift during the American Revolution. Some colonists remained _____ to avoid conflict and war.
