The image shows a laptop screen with a video player interface. A white text box is centered on the screen, containing two paragraphs of text. The background of the video player is a kitchen scene with various items on shelves and a clock on the wall. The laptop keyboard is visible at the bottom of the frame.

Pilgrims were settlers who came from Great Britain in search of religious freedom. Many Pilgrims were a part of the religious group called "Separatists." They wanted to separate from the Church of England, and so, they set sail to America in hopes of a new life. They wanted to be able to practice their religion how they wanted, without being persecuted (punished for their beliefs) like they were in Britain.

Some people just wanted the opportunity for a better life. Those passengers were called "strangers" and included merchants, skilled workers and children. Nearly 40 passengers were Protestant Separatists, called "Saints." They hoped to establish a new church in the New World. Collectively, they were known as "Pilgrims." To pay for their journey, the Pilgrims promised to send back goods for seven years after landing in North America.
