Ancient Egypt, a civilization that lasted 3,000 years in northeast Africa, had many pharaohs. Pharaohs were the kings or leaders in government and were viewed as gods. Historians estimate that there were at least 170 pharaohs in total and 31 dynasties. The civilization (a group of people with their own way of life) went through three distinct united periods called the Old Kingdom, the Middle Kingdom, and the New Kingdom.

Ancient Egypt was divided into two regions known as Upper Egypt and Lower Egypt. This was based on the flow of the Nile River. Oddly, Upper Egypt was in the south and Lower Egypt was in the north.

Ancient Egyptians believed in hundreds of gods and goddesses, also known as deities. Their religion was a very important part of how they lived. Each god represented a different part of life such as the god of sun and the god of knowledge.
