6 PASSAGES

The president is the head of the Executive Branch, or Article II, of the federal (national) government. A "cabinet" of people helps the president make informed decisions about a wide range of topics and issues.

The head of the Cabinet is the Vice President. The oldest Cabinet positions are the Department of State and the Department of Treasury.

The Constitution does not say that the president must have a Cabinet. George Washington was the first president to organize and use a Cabinet in 1789. His Cabinet included four advisors. Washington's first full Cabinet met on November 26, 1791. His Cabinet included Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of War Henry Knox, and Attorney General Edmund Randolph. The Cabinet has remained very similar in operation and function to this day.
